A natural world in miniature

2019 Collection

Our Values

Safety, attention to detail, authenticity and excellence

Our Vision

To create the natural world in miniature

Our Mission

To inspire a love of nature and a sense of wonder at its diversity of creatures, through our range of authentically detailed, hand painted miniature animal figurines.

To stimulate creativity, through sensory play and imagination, and to encourage curiosity about the natural world - play, learn, collect, develop.

To bring to life the prehistoric world and foster an understanding of the evolution and extinction of species To highlight the importance of protecting our endangered species and their habitats.

To bring the highest standards of craftsmanship, materials and safety to our collectable range. The play models are solid, safe in water, easy to clean and dishwasher proof, ensuring they are hygienically safe.

Prehistoric World

Anthony Beeson

2019 sees CollectA enter its thirteenth year of existence in producing models of Prehistoric fauna and flora. It continues in its mission to both educate and to provide the greatest amount of creative play with the accuracy of its models.

This year in close collaboration with my colleague, the sculptor Matthias Geiger, we have produced another varied selection of animals for CollectA's prehistoric animals series. Fans will not find so many models this year as both Matthias and I have had other projects to undertake which have limited the amount of time that we could spare. We apologise for this and hope to return to our normal output next year.

In response to requests from our collectors we are adding the synapsid Edaphosaurus, that lived during the late Carboniferous to early Permian periods, to our new Early Prehistoric Series. In CollectA's popular series we offer a model showing the Early Cretaceous Japanese theropod Fukuiraptor and the late Cretaceous South American Carnotaurus.

In the Deluxe series we have prepared a new model of the Early Cretaceous British and European theropod, Baryonyx. This model once again takes into consideration the longer vertebrae discovered on the Isle of Wight that have been assigned to the species and also has been given an articulated jaw. Also in the Deluxe range we have produced a detailed model of the remarkable Canadian 'mummy' fossil nodosaurid ankylosaur, Borealopelta, from the Early Cretaceous era whose discovery caused so much excitement in 2017.

In the Supreme series we offer a model of the recently discovered Brazilian tapejarid pterosaur Caiuajara from the Late Cretaceous which we hope will find favour. It again features an articulated jaw. In the Prehistoric Animal range we have produced a model of the Eurasian Elasmotherium, also known as 'the Siberian Unicorn', an extinct genus of rhinoceros dating from the Late Pliocene to the Pleistocene era.

Finally, for those who are fans of our CollectA Box series of miniatures we offer a set of Prehistoric Animals from after the age of dinosaurs. Wishing you all a happy and educational year of play and collecting.

Unicorn in Celtic Mythology

In Celtic and northern European folklore, the unicorn is often depicted as a white horse-like animal with a long horn. In the middle ages, it was commonly described as an extremely wild woodland creature, a symbol of purity and grace.

Celtic Knot
 This pattern is said to represent the interconnection of life and our place within the universe. Celtic knots are referred to as endless knots due to the fact that they do not have an end or a beginning. The endless knots represent the eternalness of nature.

Sailor's Knot
 This design features two intertwined ropes and may have been created by sailors during their long voyages as a means of remembering their loved ones. The Sailor's knot is symbolic of friendship, affection, harmony and love.

The Tree of Life

It is a representation of harmony and balance in nature. The Tree of Life symbolized strength, a long life, wisdom, and rebirth. The Celts also believed that they actually came from trees, and considered them magical, living beings. Trees were said to guard the land and acted as a doorway into the spirit world.

Celtic symbol

The Celtic symbol made up of three conjoined spirals in rotational symmetry is called Triskelion and means "three legs". This Triple Spiral represents the family as mother-father-child, eternity as life-death-rebirth and past-present-future. It is also believed to represent the three Celtic worlds: the spiritual world, the present world and the celestial world.
